BROKE SERENITY

In Broke Serenity, she explores the tension between fragility and strength through a layered use of oil, acrylic, and metallic pigments. The woman's closed eyes and softly tilted pose evoke a fractured statue, symbolizing the complexity of human experience beneath a surface of calm.

EMOTIONS

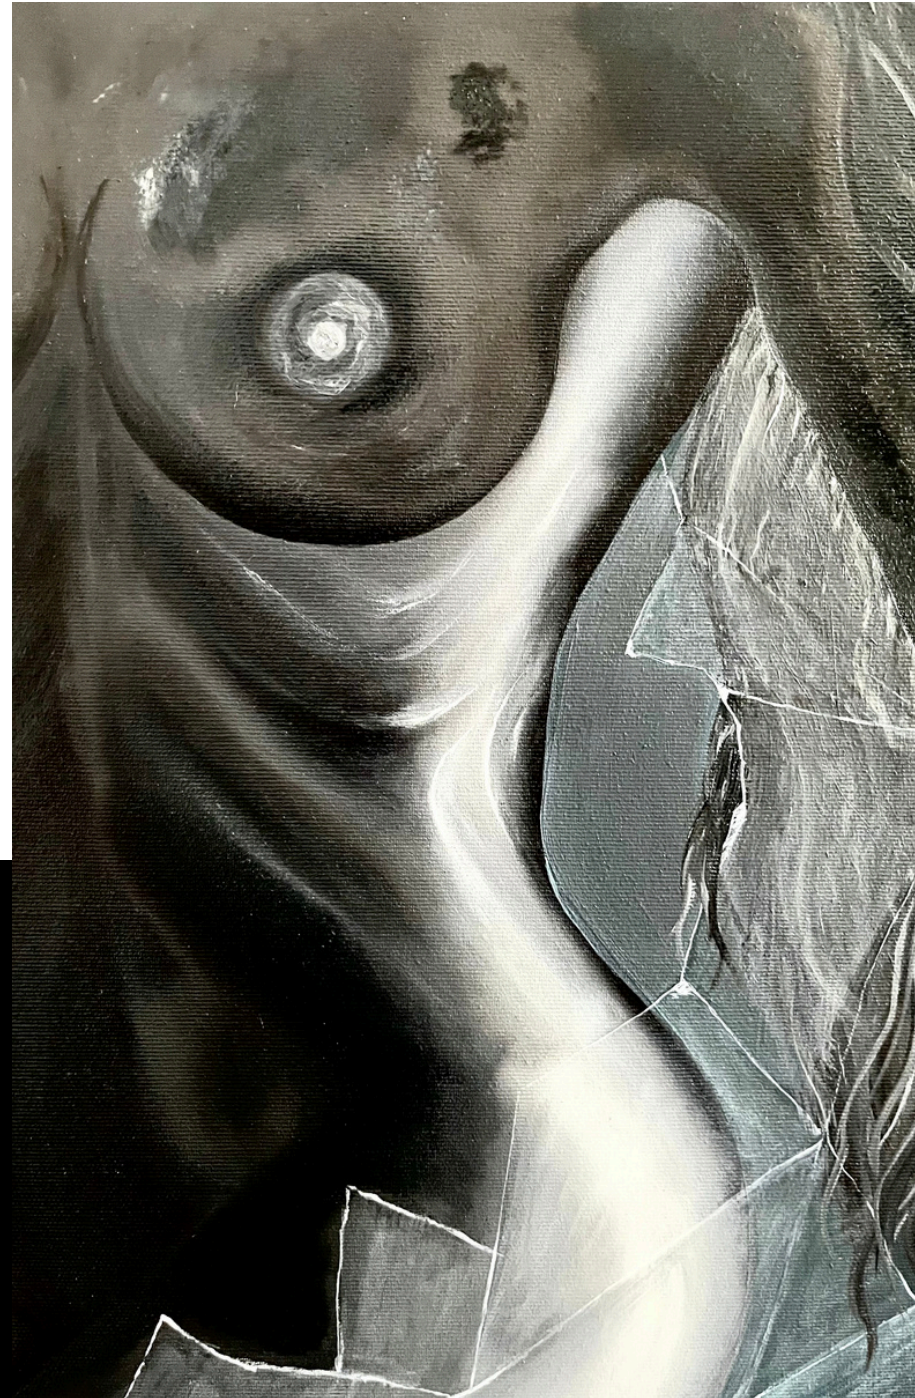

This artwork explores the connection between vulnerability and strength. Through a subtle interplay of textures and hues, Broke Serenity reveals the coexistence of pain and serenity, inviting viewers to reflect on the beauty found within imperfection and the resilience of the human spirit.

The muse

With her eyes closed and head gently tilted back, her form extends beyond the canvas, evoking a sense of liberation and a longing for flight.

The fractured surface symbolizes the emancipation of the creative spirit, while the work stands as a quiet reflection on emotions shaped by time and evolving relationships.

'The Muse' invites viewers to explore their own interpretations, challenging preconceptions about fragility and the beauty of the human form, while revealing a quiet tension between vulnerability and inner strength, and encouraging a deeper reflection on the emotional layers that shape our perception of self.

SOLOMON'S CHILDREN

In this canvas, she captures the unspoken joy of childhood through the radiant smiles of two exuberant children. Using a palette of black, white, and golden metallic hues, the work creates a timeless atmosphere while celebrating connection, happiness, and the beauty of shared moments.

THE MODERN ART ROCK

Inspired by ancient rock art and reinterpreted through a contemporary lens, this piece presents enigmatic silhouettes reminiscent of a distant past, engaged in conflict.

At its center, a solitary figure emerges as a guardian—standing as a barrier to protect the hopeful from being drawn into chaos.

Through bold contrasts, symbolic tension, and a rich color palette, the work invites viewers to reflect on the delicate balance between light and darkness, hope and strife, as it unfolds within the complexity of human existence.

The invisible mask of the soul

2023 | 80x100x3 cm | oil, acrylic and metallic colors

In this artwork, a fractured mask with golden, voluminous lips and a closed eye invites contemplation of the hidden complexities beneath our outward personas. The mask underscore vulnerability and the incomplete nature of our outward identities.

THE DEPTHS OF TIME

“NAVIGATING THE STRUGGLE WITH TECHNOLOGY”

This work explores the intricate relationship between humanity and technology, highlighting the tension between digital immersion and the diminishing space for self-reflection.

At its center, a symbolic clock embodies the irretrievable time lost within the rhythms of modern, hyperconnected life.

Through its conceptual approach, the piece invites contemplation on the pace of contemporary existence, urging a more conscious balance between technological engagement and personal introspection.
